

Akhilesh launches IT City project

UP CM Akhilesh Yadav with HCL chairman Shiv Nadar addressing a joint press conference in Lucknow — PTI

PBD BUREAU/PTI

LUCKNOW, DEC 30

UTTAR Pradesh Chief Minister Akhilesh Yadav today launched the state's ambitious IT City project in Lucknow.

The IT City, to be set up at Chak Gajaria farms at a cost of Rs 1,500 crore, would be developed with the help of technology giant HCL and would be established as an information and technology hub of Lucknow.

Expressing gratitude to HCL Chairman Shiv Nadar, Akhilesh hoped that the project, would provide employment to youths of the state and will be completed soon.

Nadar promised to give jobs to the local people and said would be made to develop it as a model for the nation.